The Ajman Department of Finance has signed a cooperation agreement with Emirates Auctions, under which the company will undertake the task of organizing electronic auction sales for the Department of Finance and for those who wish from the Ajman government agencies. The agreement was signed by Marwan Ahmed Al Ali, Director-General of the Ministry of Religious Affairs, and Omar Matar Al-Mannai, Executive Director of Emirates Auction Company. Which contributes to the development of services and shortening the time, effort and costs associated with them. He added that the signing of the agreement stems from the department's keenness to implement its vision by relying on the latest technologies and best practices, and to implement its mission to efficiently and effectively manage and develop government financial resources by upgrading policies and regulations in accordance with international best practices, which contributes to enabling government agencies to achieve their strategic goals. He pointed out that under this agreement, Emirates Auctions will organize electronic auctions for the sale of assets owned by the Department of Finance and those who wish from the Ajman government entities to sell their assets through Emirates Auctions, in light of the success achieved by the company over the past years with all its partners from government agencies and departments. At the state level.
